First Communion will be celebrated in St. Senan's on Saturday June 10th.

However, we are also giving families the opportunity to celebrate First Communion at any of the regular weekday or weekend Masses during the month of May 2023 up to and including the Sunday before First Communion, June 04th. In other words, we're introducing what might be called a Communion Season.

If people choose to go this route they will need to let the parish know the date and time of the Mass they will be attending. Once we have this information, we will welcome the family and make a point of celebrating the child's First Communion.

For those choosing the traditional Saturday First Communion there will be a number of changes.

Most notably, the school and the teachers will not be involved in the First Communion Mass. The teacher's involvement will not pass beyond the school doors. They'll cover the school curriculum, nothing more.

Of course, the teachers will be welcome to attend the First Communion Mass - and we'll be delighted to have them with us on the day - but they will not be involved in the Mass itself, either before or on the day.

The Mass will be organized by a team of people from the parish and by parent volunteers.

Furthermore, with the help of volunteers from the parish - between now and First Communion - the parents and guardians of all children celebrating First Communion will be required to teach the children how to participate in Mass.

To do this we will need to devise a structure. If you might be interested in helping to devise this structure, please get in touch.
